something Econoline quarterly

JUNE 2004

61-67 Econoline owners who have been recorded attendees at one of this year's EconO meets are provided one unsolicited issue. Owners who have once provided all three lines of the embossed characters on their Econolines VIN tag are eligible to request distribution of four consecutive annual editions

DISTRIBUTION CRITERIA

Two asterisks () before your name on the mailing label, means this is your last issue unless you annually renew prior to September 10th.

Owners currently receiving annual distribution who have double asterisks before their mailing label name will be automatically renewed if they are recorded as an attendee at one of next quarters EconO meets.

Owners receiving annual distribution who have double asterisks on their mailing label and who will be unable to attend any of next quarters EconO meets can annually renew by simply contacting me prior to September 10th, by email, postcard, or phone. Please don't send me unsolicited money, stamps, or SASE's.

TYPOGRAPHICAL ERRORS

Because I take so much blood thinner that my fingertips are no longer sensitive enough to "feel" when I make a typographical error, please let me know whenever you discover that I've mistyped something.

CLASSIFIEDS

61-67 Econoline related classifieds are free to anyone and, unless notified otherwise, will continue being published until the author's last scheduled issue as of the time of submission which is indicated by the number following their state/province abbreviation.

PARTS

Terry Kritsberg reports that polyethylene Econoline spring eye bushings are available from: EFPO Springs & Things who are further identified on the last page vendor list. Their stock numbers are: Front: BPRB52 and Rear: BPRB71.

Due to medical reasons, Eugene Phillips says he is seriously considering selling his Blue Oval Engineering business to early Econoline owner and SEQ reader Bret Harman of La Miranda CA.

NAPA part #1035 is a yard long $36 bulk section of filler pipe to gas tank hose. The most recent version of this tubing is still being identified as having a 2" inside diameter, but I recently found that it actually has a 2" outside diameter and will not fit an early Econoline. The NAPA hose which has an inside 2" diameter that fits an Econoline is part #1045 sold in a foot long $15 section.

One of the first new $289 to $579 D&D Econo Disc Brake kits displayed on page 4507 was purchased by SEQ reader Jim Bulger and installed on his 63 Econoline van that he drove round trip from GA to the 2004 Carlisle PA meet and back with no problems. For further information visit the www.dddiscbrakes.com site, or contact SEQ reader Dennis Ferris.

Prefer that 4"x6" or 5"x3" prints (or as internet attachments emailed to don@mootech.net) be provided. Unless return is specifically requested, submitted prints will be trimmed as necessary and used in 11"x17" paste up's which are retained on file. Images of your truck at meets/shows are always welcome, but prefer that snaps more prominently display your truck, rather than other things (e.g., trophies, etc).
